Los Angeles Trade-Technical College Opens New Pride Center

New center's opening coincides with the week of National Coming Out Day and provides an inclusive space for students who identify as part of the LGBTQIA+ community

(Los Angeles—October 10, 2024) Los Angeles Technical-Trade College (LATTTC) on October 10, 2024, hosted a grand opening celebration for its new Pride Center. The Center, named Bucky's Pride Center after the college's mascot, Bucky Beaver, will provide community-based resources and programming to empower, educate, and support students who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, intersex, or asexual (LGBTQIA+). Bucky's Pride Center meets a college priority to ensure that all LATTTC students feel a sense of belonging and community so they can achieve academic and personal success.

Throughout the event, guests visited with LGBTQIA+ vendors, mental health and wellness services, and STI testing/health resources—and enjoyed music from a live deejay, and free Habit charburgers and snacks.
